

Why you should be a Business analyst?

1. Good Pay

- It provides a good hike and good pay.
- For an average BA it is over $78,000 per year, and for good BA it is around $150,000 per year!!

2. Freedom AND Flexibility

- It provides plenty of freedom and flexibility to professional experience.

3. Flooded with Challenges

- Every client, every project is itself a new challenge.
- Understanding and planning the right and implementing it in the right direction is a challenge.

4. Every day a new story

- If you are fed up of doing the same work every day, then BA is the best profile to switch to.

5. Become a Go-To person

- A Business Analyst is always a go-to person.
- Whenever there is any confusion, deviation or anything that is not going good, BA is a person everyone looks around for the solution.

6. Varying responsibilities

- It is one title with many varying responsibilities.
- When needed a BA is a business person or technical person or a problem solver or just an intermediate and a backbone of the whole team.

7. Opportunity to learn new things

- It is the only profession where you have a need and full freedom to learn any new technology that is trending in the market.

8. Keeps Updated

- Being a BA it is mandatory to be aware of all the new and useful technologies which are being used and are good for the growth of your company.

9. Working with different people

- Business Analyst has to interact with new people every day they can be clients, team mates from different departments.

- It a opportunity to build good communication, confidence and business terms.

10. Utilize past experience and knowledge

- Knowledge and experience level of BA makes the difference.
- It can take an average BA person to the top in the list.

11. Continuous Learning

- Every project, every client brings an opportunity to learn something new.

12. Creative Thinking

- It's a BA who have to make every project or work interesting for team members.
- BA have to think in a creative way to motivate team members and propose interesting plans.

